JUDY GOETTER, Business Manager

It is with pleasure that we, the staff of your 1963 "Hornet," present the story of a year at Kirtland High School. This is how it was, how we saw it; the remembered and the half-remembered. We extend to you this record of a busy, productive, and eventful year. We saw hands - the working tools of the mind - seeking, guiding, moulding, recording. This is the record of the faces, events, activities, and accomplishments. This is Kirtland High School . . . '63 . . .

Dear Students,

I am pleased and honored to write a short philosophy concerning our school system. I commend Mr. Karolak and his Yearbook Staff for their efforts to develop a fine publication concerning Kirtland High School.

All children are gifted. The task of the school now and in the future is that of taking the lid off and providing education unlimited - education that would discover and develop the abilities of children with special talents in music, in art, in auto mechanics, in agriculture, in science, in math, or in whatever field of endeavor their interests and abilities lie.

This broad view of a comprehensive educational program is essential as we look towards the task of the schools in the future.

For the academically talented student, estimated at something like 15-20% of the total school population, Doctor James B. Conant urges a stiffer program, especially in the foreign languages and mathematics. In addition to the requirements - - - - four years of English and three years of social studies - - - - this particular segment of the pupil population, according to Dr. Conant's recommendation, should have four years of math, four years of some foreign language, and three years of science. Physical education, music and art and dramatics would be in addition to these 18 academic units. Providing the school - plant facilities for an educational program of such dimensions for these able students and at the same time doing equally as well, but in a different manner, for the remaining 80-85% of the student population is a challenge of no small proportions confronting communities in every part of the country.

In the midst of this discussion about educational needs for the future, argument over quality-versus quantity education are frequently heard:

. . . Behind such arguments is the assumption that a society can choose to educate a few people exceedingly well or to educate a great number of people somewhat less well, but that it cannot do both. But a modern society such as ours cannot choose to do one or the other. It has no choice but to do both. Our kind of society calls for the maximum development of individual potentialities at all levels.

Board of Education

Excerpt From The Kirtland Board's Philosophy of Education

Each student should learn that in this country participation infers competition. Competition implies a struggle or conflict between two or more persons for the same object. Inherent in this situation is the basic fact that in most competitive circumstances there are usually more losers than winners. The winners achieve not only a joy of winning but usually a prize to their profit. The losers live to try again. The school seeks mental, physical and moral development of its students, and recognizes that not everyone can compete successfully in any one particular field. Guidance toward those specific areas of activity where additional training is most likely to provide success for each competitive individual is an important part of the school's responsibility.

The school will teach how the rules of sportsmanship apply to an English exam as well as to an interscholastic football game. Such experiences are an introduction to the American lifelong competitive struggle for increased excellence in all phases of business, community, political and private family life. They show that there is not only a joy in winning, but also a joy in competing to see who will win.

Understanding of these concepts through knowledge of them, reasoning concerning them, and practice at experiencing them can not only help the student as a socially responsible citizen, but also as himself - learning to live as an individual alone, with dignity and self respect.

Emphasis must be placed on the development of reasoning powers to be used in solving problems. A knowledge of the past is essential to those who will be in a position to apply successful methods to problems that recur. But technological, political, and social developments are, and will be, taking place so rapidly that no school system can be sure their graduates will have studied the subjects that will be in demand in the years to come. We must assume that those who have learned how to solve problems will find opportunity to apply that talent. Where well-developed reasoning powers are backed by a firm foundation of English, reading, writing, and arithmetic basics the student will be well prepared for the future. Our students are facing a future that will ask them to continue lifelong learning experiences (both in institutions of higher education and in competitive society). Understanding and preparation for this reality must be achieved in our school's program.

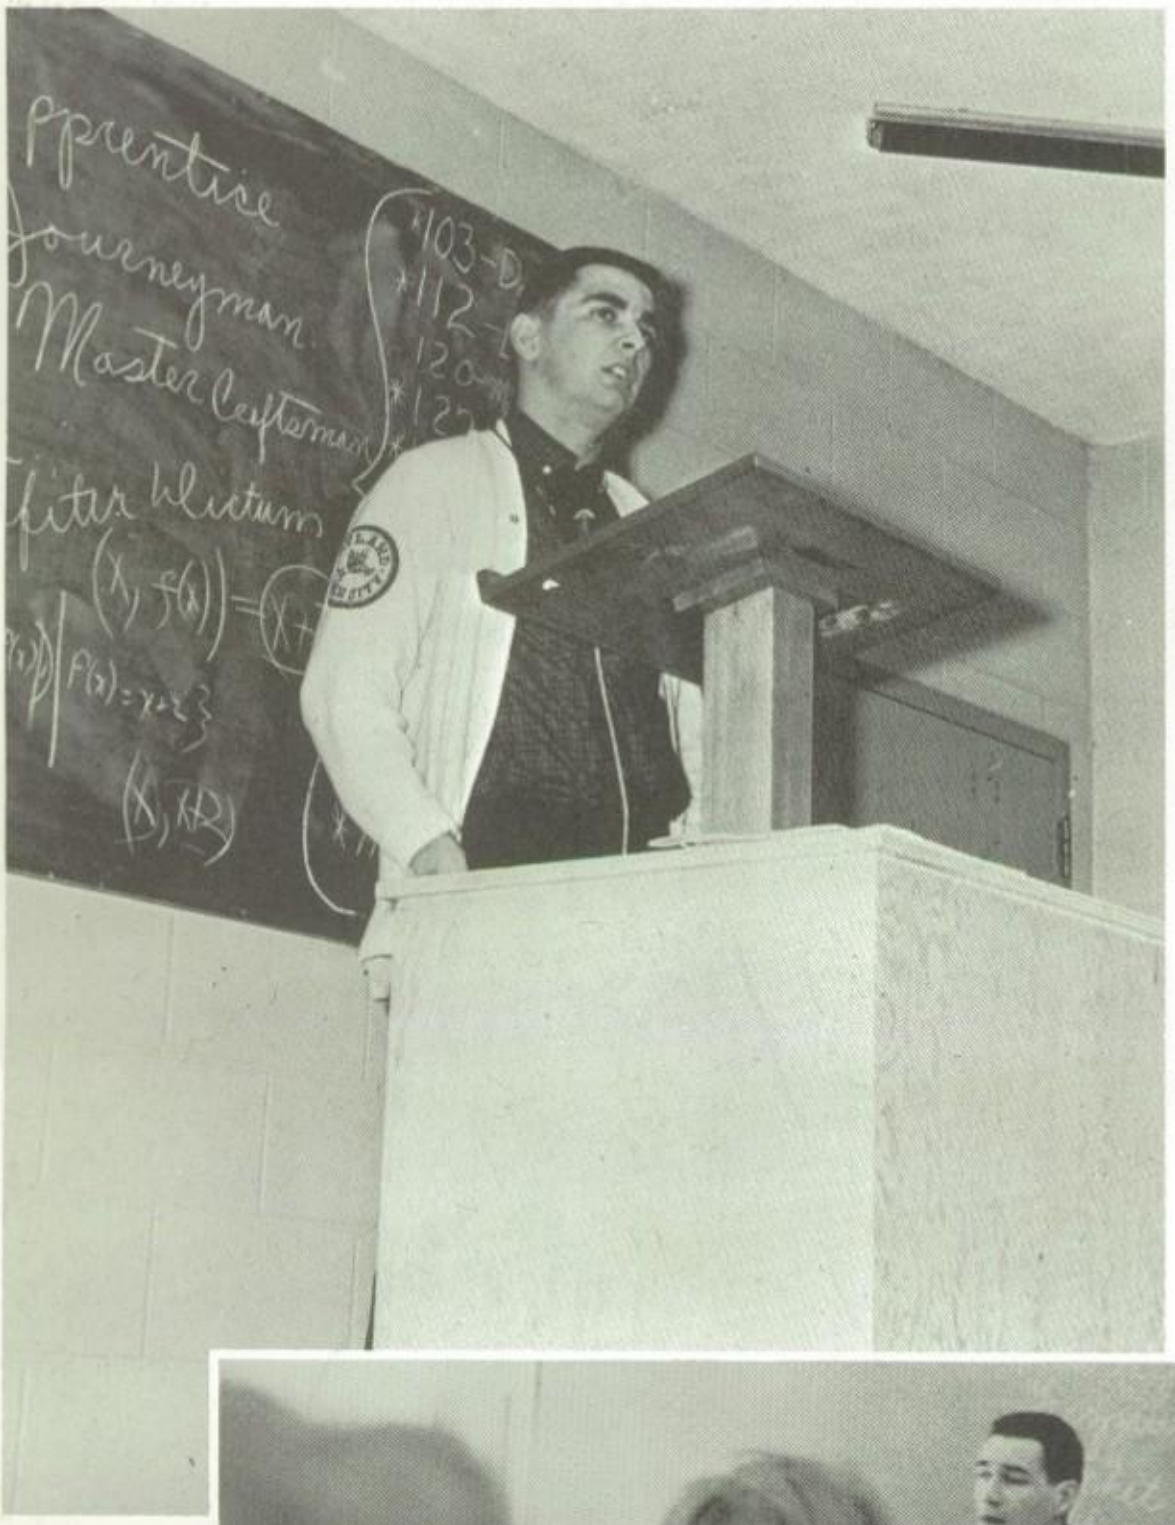
As the future citizens of America, the Seniors took on many responsibilities in various projects as . . .

selling Christmas trees from Creawood Forests to help raise funds for graduation . . .

helping to campaign for the March of Dimes . . .

and taking time from their studies to beautify the school grounds in the annual Senior Work Day . . .

Working just as hard and with as much vigor as in their projects, the Seniors worked towards completing a successful school year . . .



as they discussed controversial current affairs . . .

analyzed immortal poems . . .

and experimented with the unchanging law of gravity.

However, the Seniors took a rest from the daily grind when school was cancelled due to weather which produced scenes like this.

Our first foreign exchange student, Behzad A. Pakizegi, from Tehran, Iran, was a smiling, happy young man. Behzad was also a very conscientious student and put forth much effort in his studies. Without a doubt, the students at Kirtland will remember Behzad's eagerness . . .

to learn about America . . .

and to tell us about Iran.

Homecoming

The traditional Homecoming ceremony was held on a bright sunny day in October before an enthusiastic crowd of Kirtland High School students. The climax of the day was reached when Betty Romanauski was crowned our Homecoming Queen. Her attendants were Dolly Harrington, Bonnie Brochick, and Cheryl Wolfert. Mary Anne Bertleff, Daryl Horvath, and Lorraine Hrvatin represented their respective classes - senior, sophomore, and freshman. The Hornet football team made the day a success by defeating Cardinal 14 to 6. That evening our lovely queen reigned over the Homecoming Dance.

Words cannot express the delight and happiness shown on the face of Betty Romanauski as she is crowned the 1962 Homecoming Queen by the Queen of 1961, Kathy Donaldson.

Freshman representative Lorraine Hrvatin watches the game with great interest.

Couples such as Dolly Harrington and John Pokelsek enjoyed themselves later in the evening at the Homecoming Dance.

Cold weather did not hamper the Varsity Cheerleaders' spirits.

Football

Early in the 1962-63 season the Hornet football team was hampered by injuries to key players; nevertheless, they came through with their second consecutive GLAC co-championship. The team was also honored by having Verne Manross chosen for the Press All-Stars and having John Pokelsek awarded a position on the first string of the GLAC All-Stars.

Head Coach Thrasher and his new assistant Coach Yerian guided the team throughout the season and were rewarded with many victories.

Mr. McClintock is a familiar sight at every home game, keeping an accurate record of the teams' scoring by operating the scoreboard.

IT TAKES DEFENSE TOO! As West Geauga tries to make a desperate score, our Hornet tackler lunges forward to prevent a touchdown.

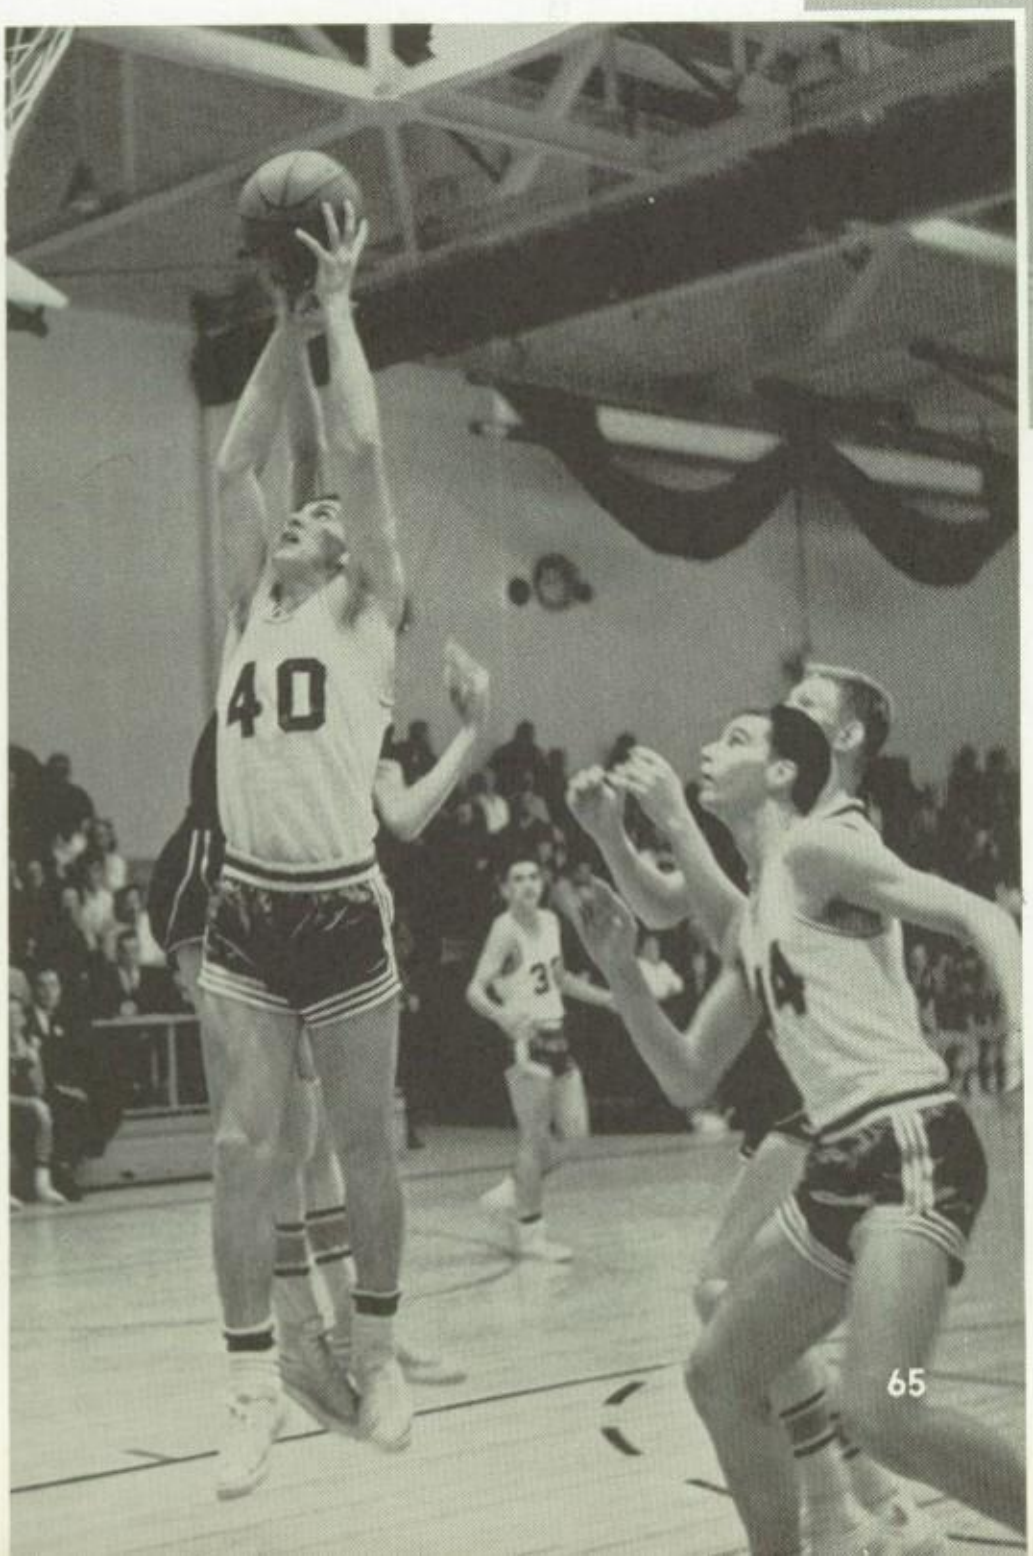
Basketball

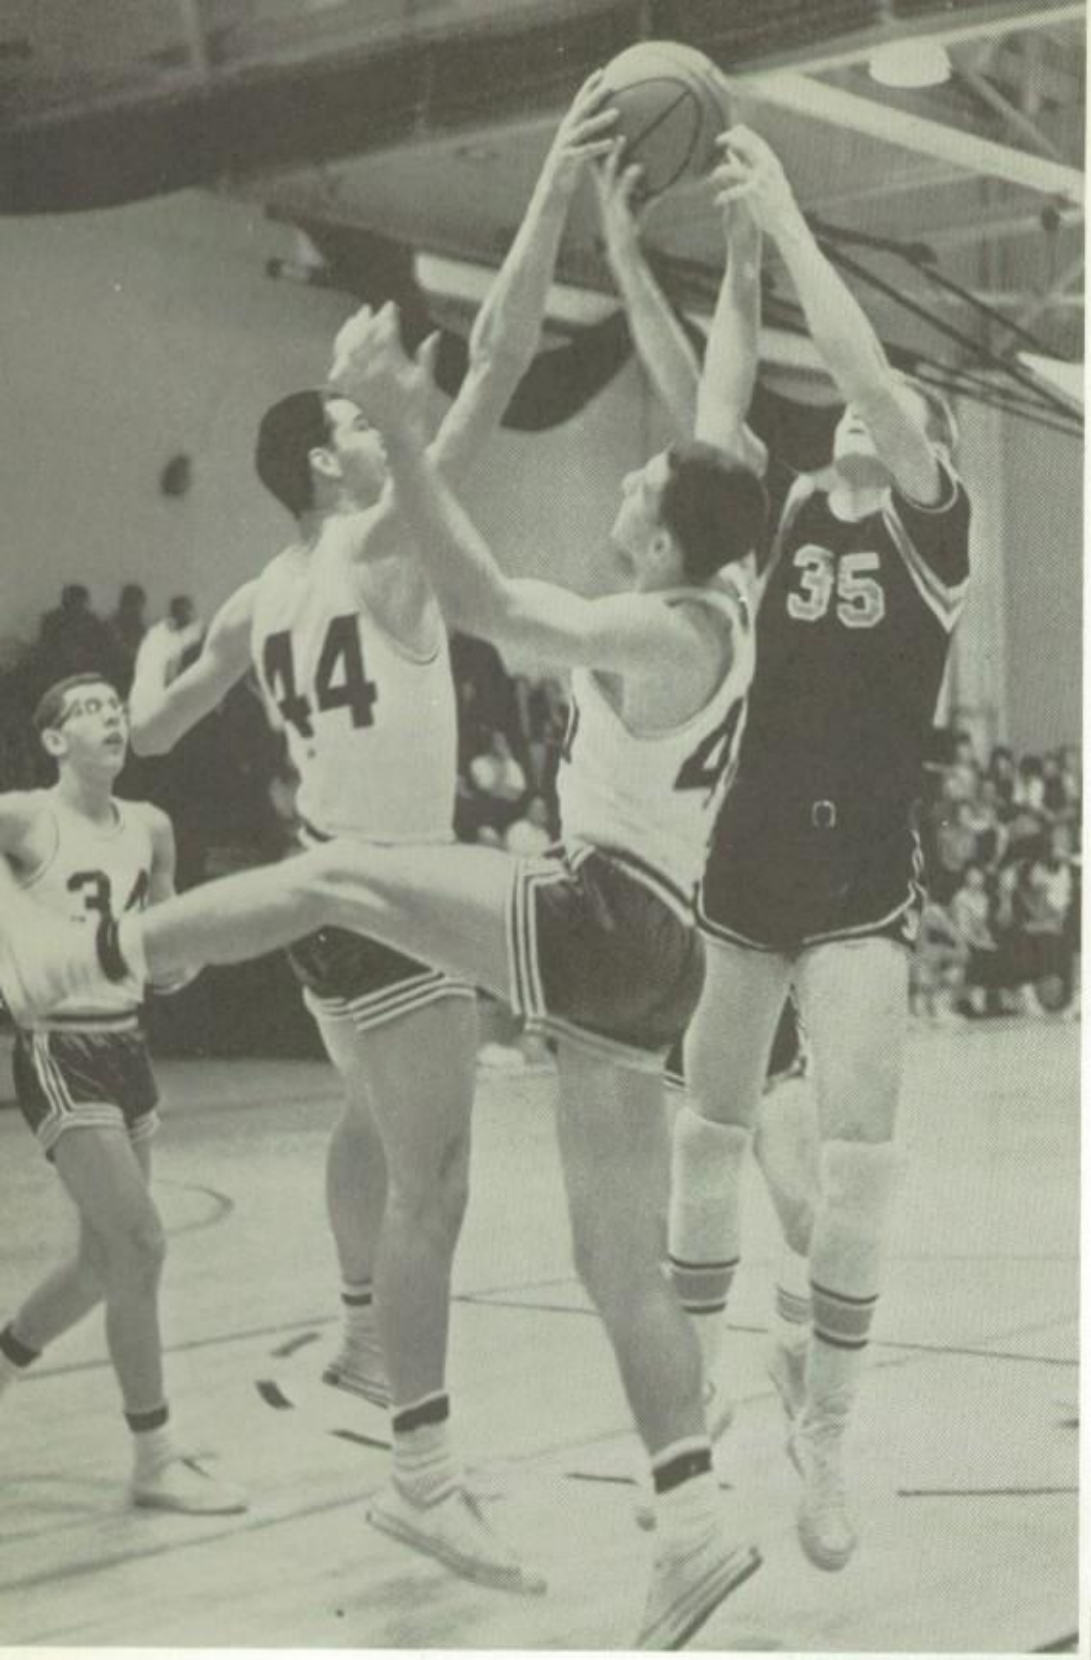
Kirtland High School students were proud of the 1962-63 basketball squad under the fine leadership of Coach McKay. This season history repeated itself as Kirtland faced W. Geauga in the decisive game - a co-championship was at stake! Despite an overall height disadvantage, our hustling Hornets captured a victory.

Coach McKay sincerely expressed his feelings about this past season: "The boys worked hard and were rewarded with their second consecutive co-championship by defeating the highly rated Wolverines in the final game of the season. This would not have been possible without the dedication of the team, spirit of the school, and faith of the team in our basketball system."

Seeing possible offensive opportunities, our alert Coach McKay points them out to his fast-breaking team.



With his eyes fixed on the basket and the ball high over his head, senior Terry Yarborough jumps to get the ball away and through the hoop.



Terry Yarborough and Bob Kniskern strike a graceful pose as they try to gain possession of a rebound.

The jubilant Hornets and Coach McKay crowd into the showers after defeating West Geauga 54 to 44.

Coach Mynchenberg watches his team in action.

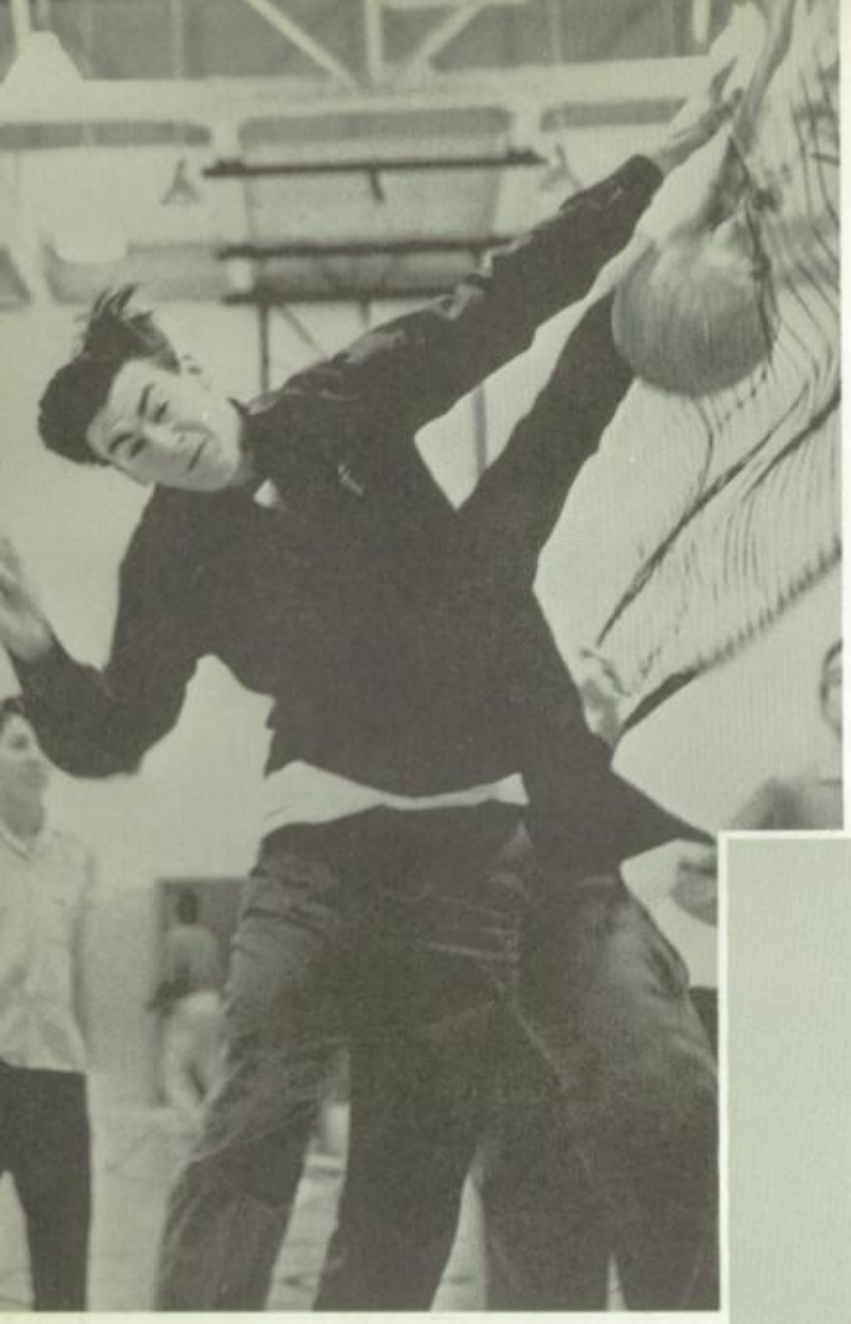
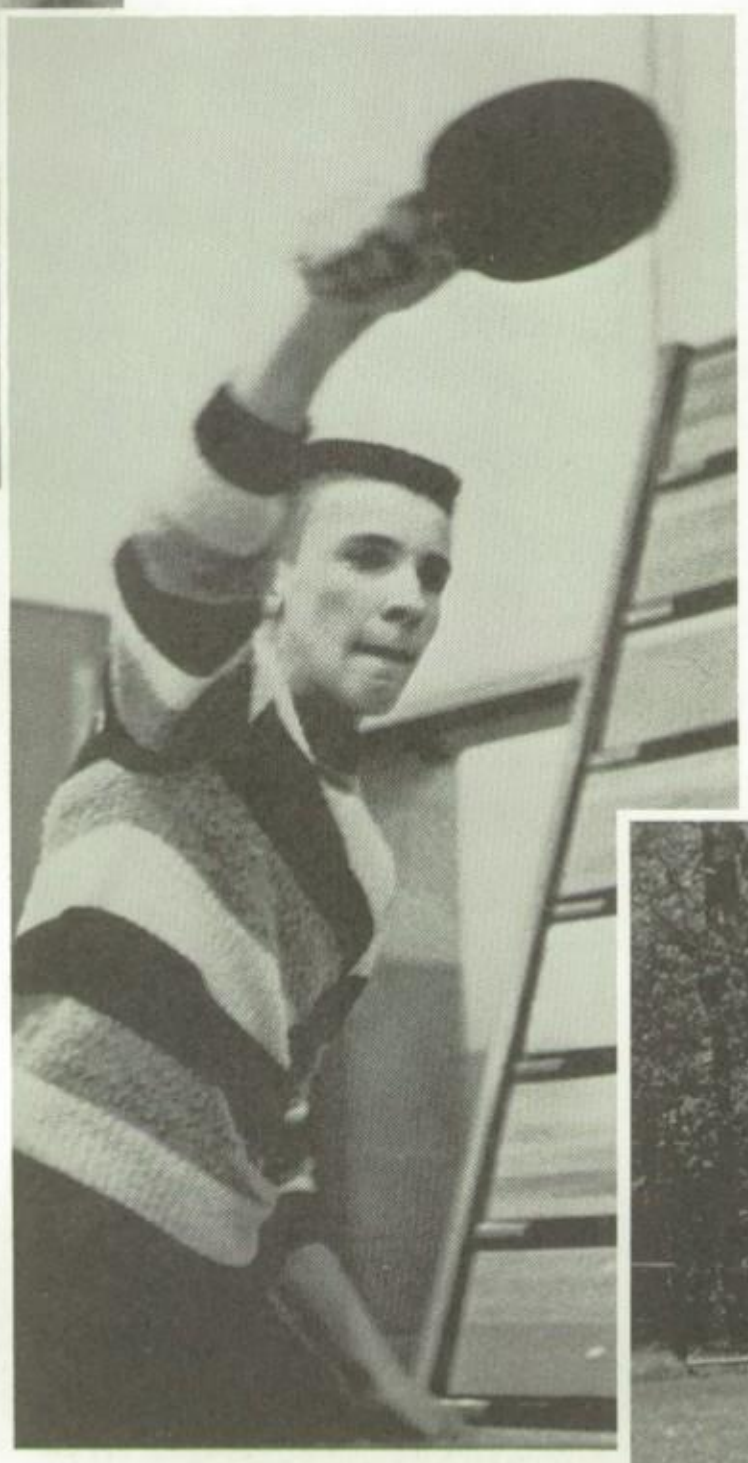
Varsity "K"



During a high spirited game Al Satava makes a desperate effort to return the volley-ball over the net.



Hadley Nickels, who is about to complete a "slam," spent part of lunchtime improving his ping-pong skills.

Larry Rost is able to hit the ball over the net despite David Cool's attempt to block it.

Senior Kathy Morse tries to get a hit which will enable her teammate to score from third.

Intramurals

Miss Newton, supervisor of the Girls' Intramurals, watches the preliminaries to a noon game.

Yale

Princeton

An annual event of the Girls' Athletic Dept. is the Yale-Princeton Game. This year a large crowd saw the Yale Bulldogs defeat the Princeton Tigers in a well-played game. As a result of the hard work of Miss Newton and the girls on both teams, the evening was a great success.

Diane Leutner tries to pass the ball to a teammate as Kathy Donaldson guards her closely.

Princeton's Marcia Silsby holds the ball high over her head as she stretches to avoid Yale guard Cheryl Baskey.

Keeping her eye on the ball, Gayle Wise, a member of the Yale Bulldogs, is ready to jump for a rebound.

Student Council

VICE-PRESIDENT	Randy Eide
SECRETARY	Anne Henninge
TREASURER	Roland Pike

In an effort to make democracy more understandable and more meaningful to Kirtland students, the Student Council was established. Through regular electoral procedures, the student body has the opportunity to select officers and representatives for this organization.

These officers and representatives meet weekly to first analyze and then discuss and finally render an opinion in the interests of the students on those areas of school life assigned to their jurisdiction.

The Council acts as the link that connects the students with the faculty and administration. It explains faculty administration decisions and acts as a sounding board for student opinion.

The Council's primary concern is the good of the student body in all phases of school life.

Mike Behm, president of the Student Council, conducts one of the general meetings.

It is the responsibility of the Student Council president to give the morning announcements.

A Message to the Student Body

As President of the Student Body, I would like to praise the students for their response to the Student Council theme for the '62-'63 year - SCHOOL SPIRIT.

I feel that we improved this area a great deal in the past year. People tend to think of school spirit only in terms of athletics, but it appears or should appear in every phase of education. If a person develops a strong sense of school spirit, it will act as an incentive for him to excel in anything he attempts while he is in school.

At Kirtland our improvement in school spirit is exemplified not only by the trophies we won in football and basketball, but also by the names of the many students which appeared on the Melvin Pike Memorial Scholarship Roll. These students excelled because they had a strong sense of school spirit. They were proud of Kirtland High and wanted to make it an outstanding school. It is the responsibility of the students to make their school an outstanding one in the area.

I feel that in the past school year the students at Kirtland High have moved rapidly toward this goal. I hope that during the coming years the students will work harder to further develop the school spirit at Kirtland.

Future Teachers of America

The John R. Williams Future Teachers of America Club offers experience and promotes interest in the teaching profession. The annual Student Teacher's Day allows the F. T. A. member to teach a class for one day. Diane Mercer (right) and Ruthanne Ellis (below) while student teaching, discover the many challenging opportunities in the field of education.

Interfaith Club

"It is better to give than to receive" is the motto of the Interfaith Club during the Thanksgiving season when a food drive is held for the needy families of Kirtland.

Shirley Thorne, an Interfaith member, gives the morning devotions.

In 1953 Kirtland High School organized the Interfaith Club to emphasize moral and spiritual values in school life. Emphasis has been placed on clean speech, clean sports, clean living, and clean scholarship. This service organization is open to any Junior or Senior interested in developing these standards. The Interfaith Club is responsible for the morning devotions. The group also presents assemblies emphasizing the spiritual side of Thanksgiving, Christmas, and Easter.

Missiles Out by Friday, Thant Told

© New York Times Service

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.—U Thant, acting secretary general, reported on his return from Havana last night that he had been "reliably informed" that the dismantling of Soviet missiles and bases in Cuba was already in progress. He said that this should be completed by Friday.

Thant said he understood that arrangements for shipment of the missiles and installations back to the Soviet Union were "in hand."

Vocal Music

The chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Savage, is divided into the Girls' Glee Club, the Girls' Ensemble, and the Mark III Trio. It is open to any capable high school student who is interested in vocal music. The chorus presents two main concerts, at Christmas and in the spring. It also participates in the Lake County Chorus Festival, the Lake County Contest, and the Berea District Contest. Bruce Powell, a member of the Mark III Trio, scored a "one" (excellent) in the State Solo Contest.

I wish you luck and I hope you enjoy your high school years.
And only a sophomore!

Linda

Nancy,
Sorry I made such a mess of your book. Keep up the Spanish work and make the best of your remaining years at B.U.A.

Eduardo

Nancy,
Sorry I made such a mess of your book. Keep up the good work and make the best of your remaining years at B.U.A.

Eduardo

Nancy,
Sorry for messing up your yearbook. Good luck in what ever you may do. ("Keep up the good work!")

Nancy:
To my beloved wife, with whom I've had the best luck and good times in my life. The time I've spent with you, and the things we've done together will always remain in my mind, no matter what happens in the future. The eight years I'll spend away from you, may separate us for good, but I can only hope you'll remember me as I am and hope some day we'll see eye to eye on the important things in life. Remember me—

As always I love you
